HARVEST YEAR

Winter was cold, with low levels of rain; Spring was warm and dry; Summer was marked by mild temperatures and low rainfall; The harvest was carried out in slightly above average temperatures and a dry climate (harvest with low levels of rain).

WINEMAKER: Miguel Pessanha

VARIETIES:

60% Baga, 30% Shiraz, 10% outras

WINEMAKING

Made exclusively from red grape varieties (Baga and Shiraz), produced through fermentation off skins. Very light crushing and pressing allow for the extraction and selection of a slightly pink must, which is then clarified until the desired level of clarity is achieved. The alcoholic fermentation process then took place with a controlled temperature of 14°C-16°C.

MATURATION

After fermenting, the wine underwent a maturation "sur lie" (in contact with lees), which enabled this wine to reach its bottling quality. Before bottling, the wine was submitted to fining, cold treatment and filtering.

STORE

It should be drunk young, preferably during the year following the harvest. The bottle must be stored in a cool place, protected from light.

SERVE

Serve at between 8°C and 10°C.

ENJOY

Mateus Dry Rosé is ideal to be enjoyed with: waffles, pasta, fish, white meat (chicken) and salads.
